K2150

The image displays three vertical strips of wood with a greyish, weathered grain pattern, set against a background of light-colored, horizontally-oriented wood planks. The strips are positioned side-by-side, with the middle strip being slightly wider than the two flanking it. The wood grain on the strips shows a mix of straight and wavy lines, with some darker knots and variations in tone. In the bottom left corner, there is a white rectangular label with the text 'K2100' in bold black font.

K2100

The image shows a close-up of a wood flooring sample. It features a light-colored wood background with three vertical strips of a darker, medium-brown wood. The wood grain is clearly visible, showing natural patterns and knots. The darker strips are wider than the gaps between them.

K2450

The image displays a wood flooring sample labeled K2800. It features a light-colored wood plank with a prominent vertical grain and several dark, circular knots. The plank is positioned vertically, overlapping a horizontal plank of the same material. The background consists of a light-colored wood floor with a horizontal plank pattern. The lighting is even, highlighting the natural texture and grain of the wood.

K2800

A vertical wooden plank, likely a piece of plywood or a similar composite material, is shown. The plank has a light-colored wood grain on the left and right edges, while the central portion is covered in a dark, mottled, and textured stain. The stain appears to be a mix of dark brown, grey, and black, giving it a weathered or aged appearance. The texture of the stain is uneven, with some areas being darker and more saturated than others. In the bottom left corner, there is a white rectangular label with the text "K1650" in bold black font.

K1650

The image shows a close-up of a wooden floor. Several long, vertical planks are visible, showing a natural wood grain with some knots and variations in color. A dark, brownish stain is applied to the surface of the planks, giving them a weathered or aged appearance. The planks are laid on a lighter-colored wooden subfloor. In the bottom left corner, there is a white rectangular label with the text 'K2750' in bold black font.

K2250

K1800

A close-up photograph of a rectangular laminate sample with a realistic wood-grain pattern. The pattern features vertical lines and knots, with a color palette ranging from light tan to dark brown. The sample is placed on a light-colored, neutral background.

K1900

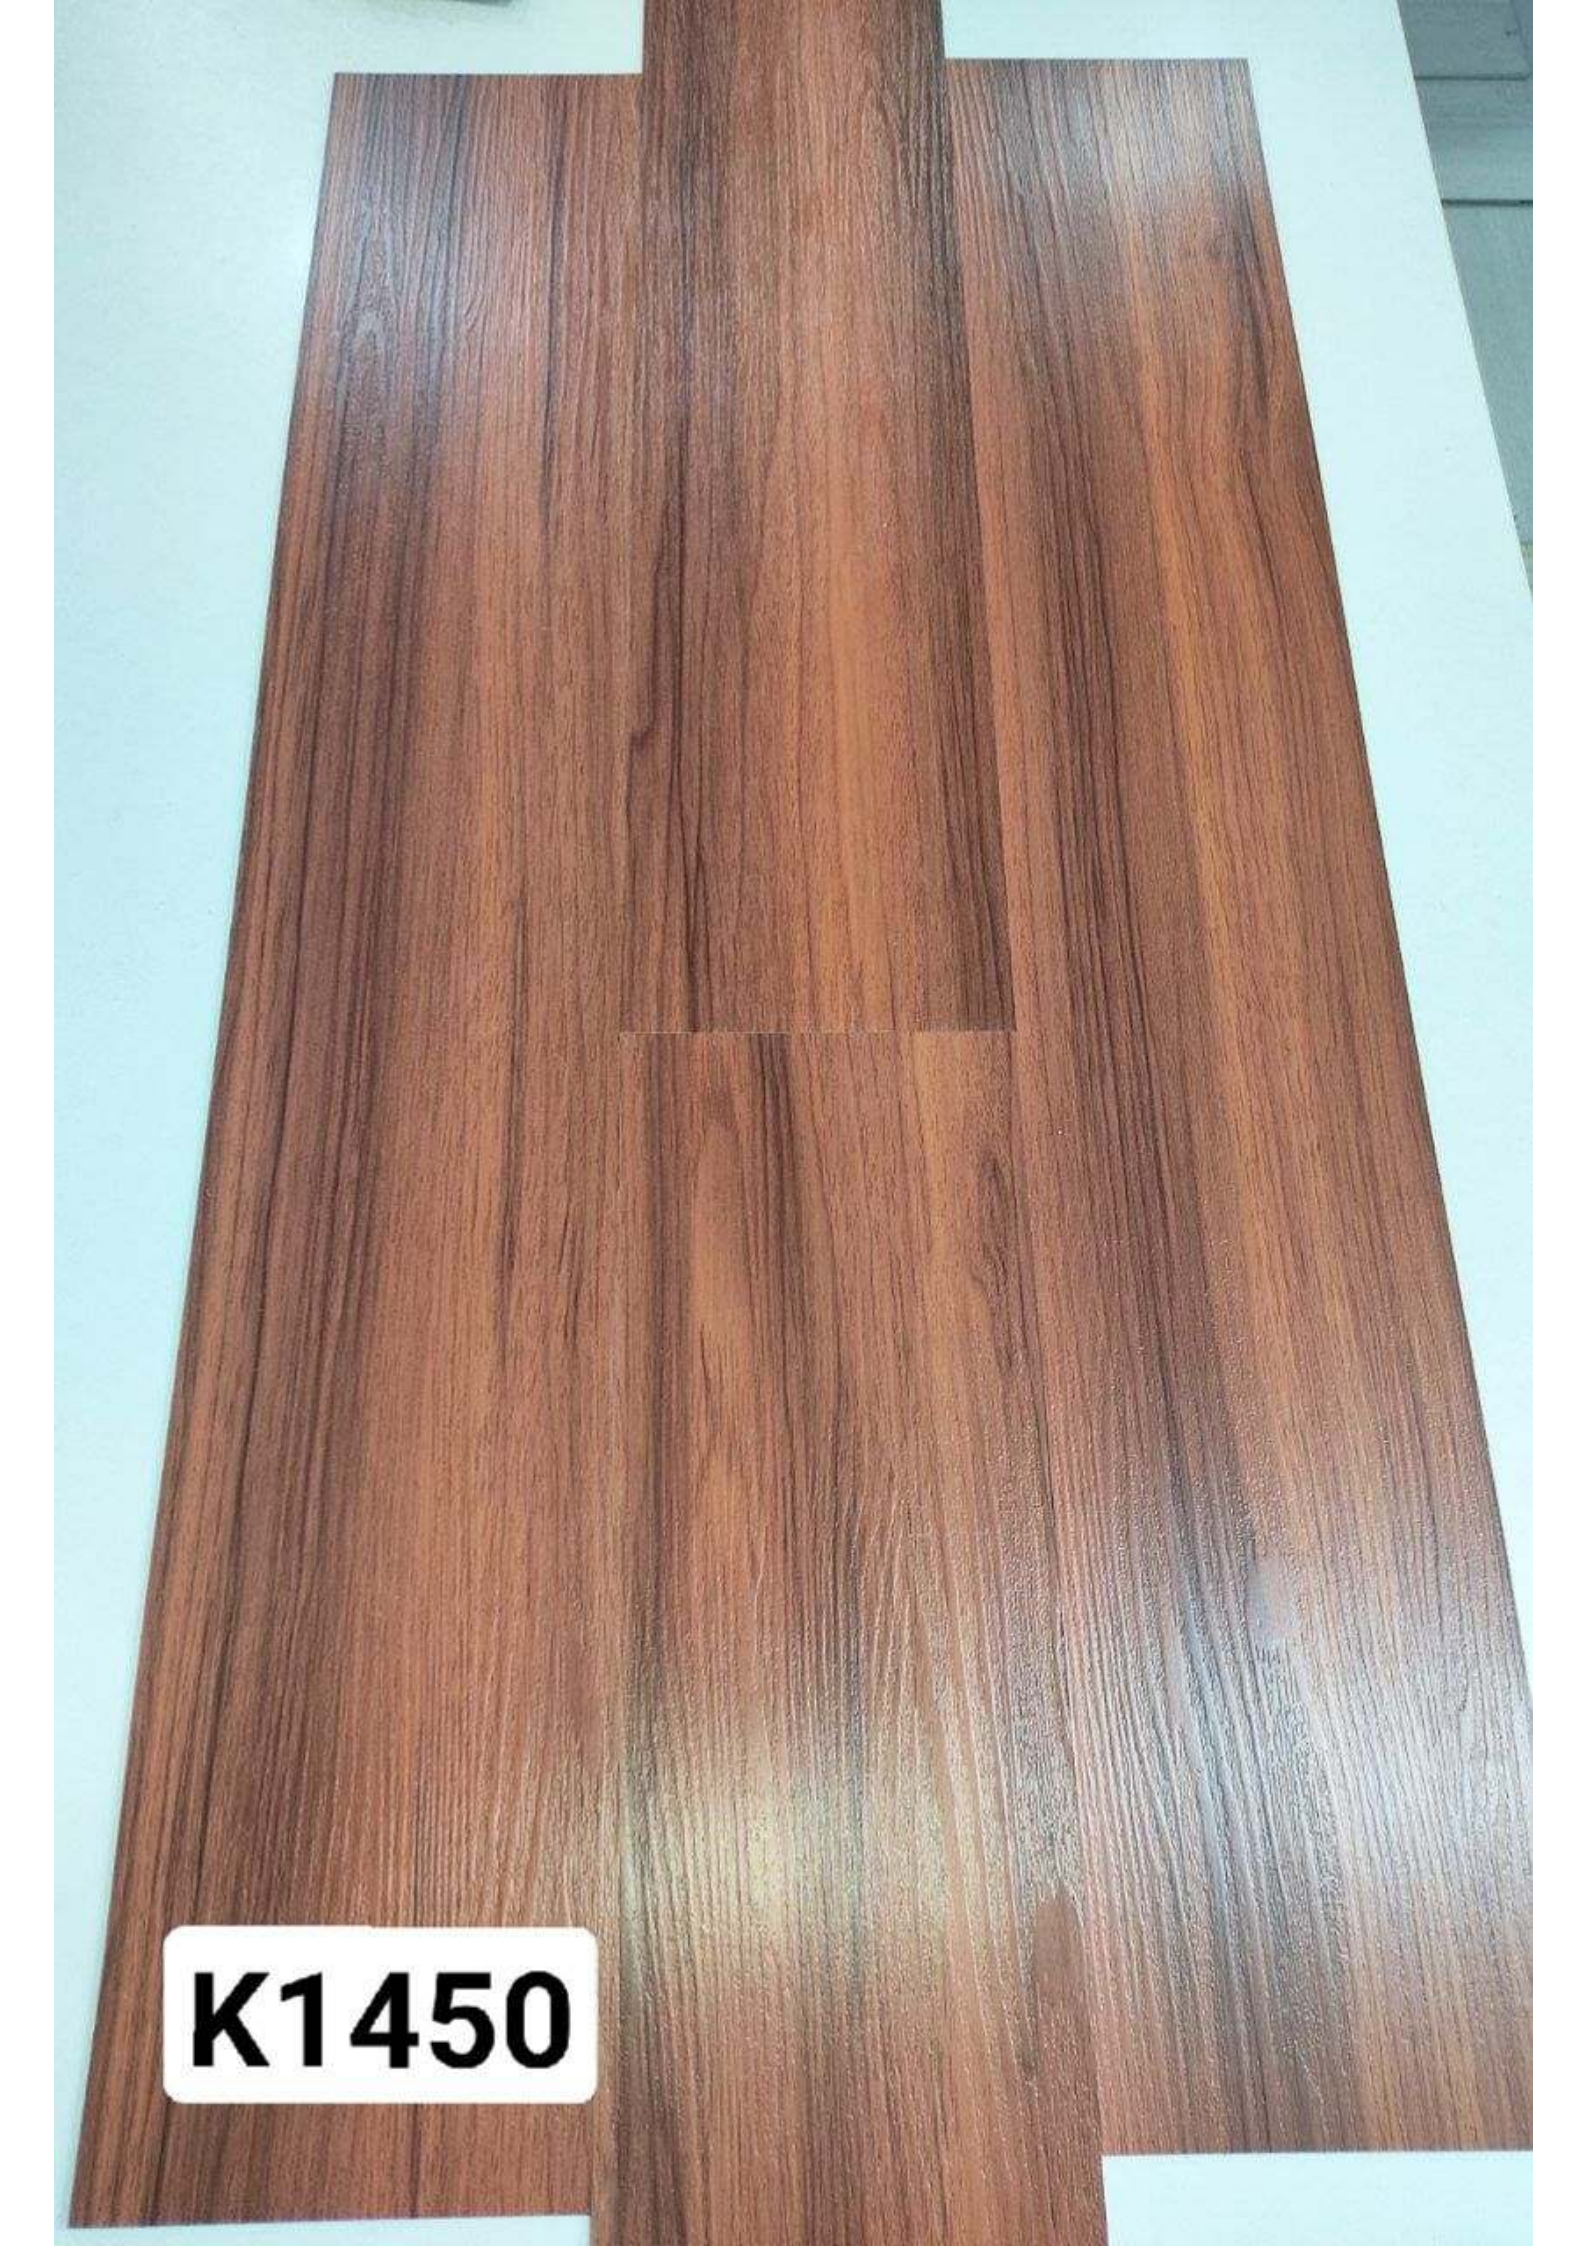

K1050

K1100

The image shows a close-up of a laminate flooring sample with a light, weathered wood grain pattern. The planks are arranged in a staggered fashion. A white label with the text 'K1700' is positioned in the lower-left corner of the image.

K1700

The image shows several long, narrow wooden planks with a rich, dark brown finish and a prominent vertical grain. The planks are arranged in a staggered pattern on a light-colored surface. A white rectangular label with the text 'K1450' is positioned in the lower-left corner of the frame.

K1450

The image displays three vertical rectangular samples of wood-grain laminate material, arranged side-by-side on a plain white background. Each sample features a distinct wood grain pattern with varying shades of light brown and tan. The grain lines are generally vertical but show some natural-looking variations and knots. The samples are slightly offset from each other, with the middle one being the most prominent.

K1550

A close-up photograph of a wood-grain laminate sample. The laminate features a realistic wood texture with vertical grain patterns and a color palette ranging from light tan to dark brown. The texture is detailed, showing natural-looking wood grain variations. The sample is mounted on a light blue background, with small white tabs visible at the top and bottom edges. A white label with the text 'K1600' is positioned in the bottom-left corner.

K1600

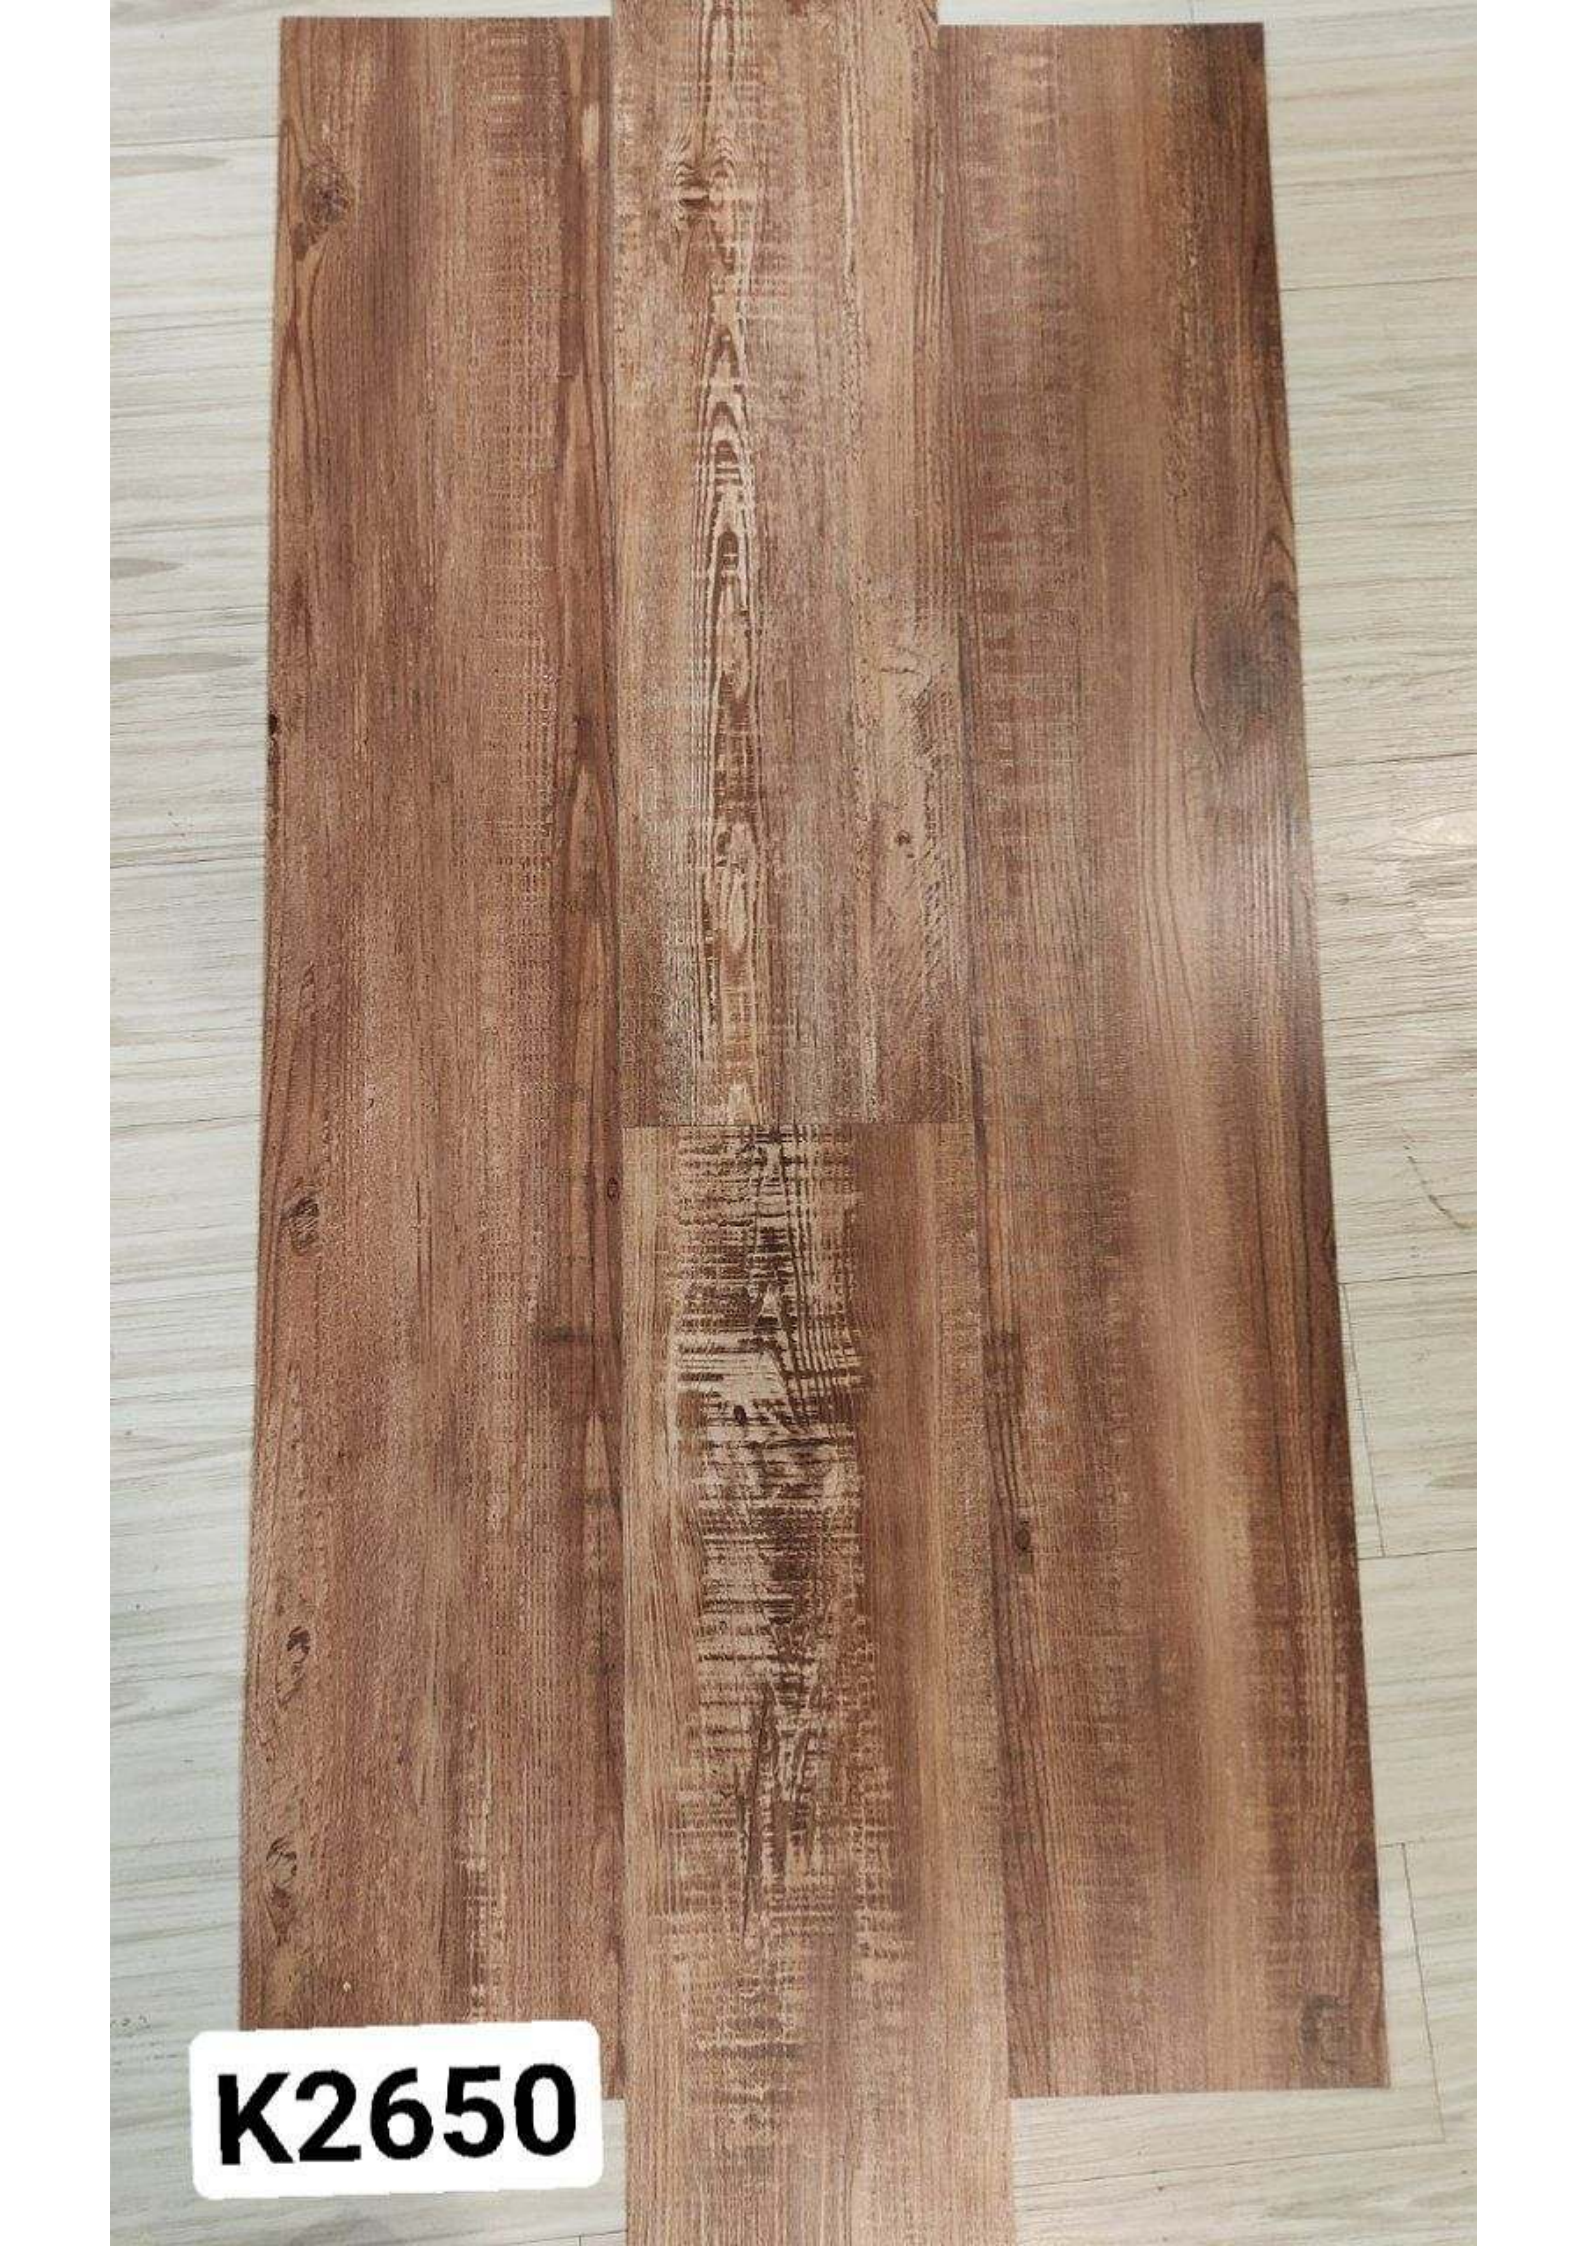

K1500

The image shows several long, rectangular wooden planks laid out on a light-colored, possibly white, surface. The planks have a natural wood grain pattern with varying shades of brown, from light tan to dark chocolate brown. There are visible knots and some lighter-colored areas, suggesting a rustic or weathered wood. A white rectangular label with the text 'K1400' is positioned in the lower-left corner of the image. The planks are arranged in a slightly overlapping manner, with one plank running vertically in the center and others laid horizontally on either side.

K1400

K1850

K2650

K1250

A close-up photograph of a wooden plank with a vertical grain pattern. The wood has a warm, medium-brown tone with visible knots and grain variations. A white rectangular label with the text 'K1350' is positioned in the lower-left corner of the plank. The plank is set against a light gray background.
